Who Should Attend

- Generalists and surgeons interested in acquiring knowledge in abdominal wall physiology and pathophysiology and looking to improve their surgical management of biologic and synthetic materials.

Purpose and Content

- The course will introduce new knowledge in abdominal wall physiology and pathophysiology and improve understanding of basic and synthetic materials in abdominal wall reconstruction. The course faculty will also discuss the latest literature on biologic and synthetic materials.

Educational Objectives

- Upon completion of this course, participants should be able to:
  - Describe the physiology, pathophysiology, and local management of biologic and synthetic materials.
  - Apply the principles of clinical management and reconstructive techniques to abdominal wall wounds.

Accreditation

- The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit Designation

- The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center designates this live activity for a maximum of 12.25 AMA Category I Credit™.

Conflict of Interest

- All speakers and faculty have disclosed no conflicts of interest.

Discussion of Off-Label Use

- For this course, all speakers report that their participation in CME activities may result in the use of unlabeled products.

Registration

- The registration form includes a waiver of liability to the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center.

Refund Policy

- A 50% refund will be issued to registrants who cancel their registration no later than February 1, 2013.

Cancellation Policy

- The Office of Continuing Medical Education reserves the right to terminate the course in the event of a natural disaster.
Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation. No partial credit will be available. Attendees should claim credit in proportion to the actual time spent in the educational activity. CME participation must be received by mail or fax prior to February 1, 2013.

A $25 handling fee will be deducted from cancellation refunds. Refund requests must be made by mail or fax and received prior to February 1, 2013, to ensure that your registration fee is refunded. Cancellations received after February 1, 2013, are not eligible for a refund. In the event that a program is cancelled, the Office of Continuing Medical Education will notify all registered attendees by February 1, 2013, and the registration fee will be refunded.

The registration fee entitles the participant admission to the conference, all course presentations. Speakers have been requested to inform the audience when off-label use of products on display may be available in the future, there may be “off-label” use discussed in the presentations. Attendees are encouraged to bring up questions for the speakers at any time.

A block of rooms is being held at the Renaissance Dallas Hotel for this meeting. To ensure your reservation, please mark the space indicated on the registration form. Reservations received after January 10, 2013, are subject to higher rates.
