Breast Pathology Fellowship

Supervision and Evaluation

The major goal of evaluation is to thoughtfully consider both the fellow and the program in order to identify strengths, provide constructive feedback, and suggest methods of improvement.

Evaluation of the Fellow

The Program Director and other faculty members specialized in breast pathology with whom the fellow interacts (from the Pathology Department and from the Breast Cancer Center) will supervise and evaluate the fellow. The fellow’s progress will be reviewed on a semi-annual basis, and input will be solicited from people with whom the fellow has interacted, including faculty members, laboratory staff, and residents and, where appropriate, patients.

Objective evaluation will involve an in-house created exam for medical knowledge at the end of the fellowship.

Evaluation of the Program

The fellow will be asked to complete a confidential written evaluation of the program and faculty members involved in the training of the fellow.

Faculty members involved with the program will be asked annually to provide confidential written evaluation of the program.
