

UT Southwestern Medical Center

U.S. News & World Report Best Children's Hospitals rankings

June 14, 2022

To the UT Southwestern Community:

Please join us in congratulating the UT Southwestern Pediatrics Group faculty, APPs, and trainees for recognition of the exceptional patient care delivered at Children's Medical Center Dallas, which U.S. News & World Report has named one of the nation's best pediatric hospitals.

For the fifth consecutive year, Children's ranks in all 10 specialties, and for the first time, all 10 specialties are among the nation's top 30. Nationally ranked programs include:

- #3 Orthopedics (a joint program with Scottish Rite for Children)
- #9 Gastroenterology & GI Surgery
- #15 Urology
- #16 Cancer
- #18 Neonatology
- #21 Diabetes & Endocrinology
- #21 Neurology & Neurosurgery
- #21 Pulmonology
- #24 Nephrology
- #28 Cardiology & Heart Surgery

We congratulate everyone at Children's Health and Scottish Rite for Children on this well-deserved recognition and extend our deep appreciation for their hard work and dedication.

Our partnership with Children's Health and shared commitment to excellence, innovation, compassion, and teamwork are fueling the development of our new pediatric hospital, which will be built on the UT Southwestern campus in the next few years. Today's announcement and recognition exemplifies the importance of our planning efforts and the necessary expansion of our services to benefit even more children and families in North Texas.

We deeply appreciate the Pediatrics Group's dedication. Please join us in celebrating their well-earned recognition.

Sincerely,

Daniel K. Podolsky, M.D.
President, UT Southwestern Medical Center

W. P. Andrew Lee, M.D.
Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost
Dean, UT Southwestern Medical School

John Warner, M.D.
Executive Vice President for Health System Affairs
CEO, UT Southwestern Health System