HOW TO: HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY DEVELOP INTERNAL NETWORKS

INTERNAL NETWORKS AT UTSW

WAYS TO DEVELOP YOUR NETWORK HERE AT UTSW

- UTSW Yammer Pages: Yammer is an organization-specific site where there are virtual communities to join based on your activity and mutual connections. Click here to check out some of our Yammer Sites!
  - Bike Friendly at UTSW
  - UTSW Marketplace
  - Asian Pacific Islander BRG

Or if you don’t see one you like, create your own!

ADDITIONAL READING

Article: Internal Networking: Why It’s Important And How To Do It Well
This article explains how to better connect with colleagues and build internal networks in a large organization.
Click here to read more

Article: 8 Reasons Building “Internal Network” Is Good for Your Career
"Your current organization is a treasure trove of valuable professional connections just waiting to be discovered and nurtured, and by taking care to form meaningful relationships with your colleagues, bosses or even your employees, you can build one of the strongest, most beneficial networks of your professional life."
Click here to read more

Article: Employees Who Network Together Stay Together
This article explains the benefits of internal networking and how to establish internal networking activities within your team.
Click here to read more

Article: How to Network Internally—and Why It’s the People You Already Know Who Matter Most
In this article you’ll find the main reasons why internal networking is so important, followed by specific tips for successful internal networking.
Click here to read more

Article: The High Cost of Poor Succession Planning
This article highlights the importance of connecting with and developing internal talent to develop a leadership pipeline and how succession planning and internal networks go hand in hand.
Click here to read more

PERCIPIO RESOURCES

Virtual Course: Leadership Insights on Networking with your Peers
Rome wasn’t built in a day, nor by one person. To attain excellence, you need a network. Start by reaching out to people who are not like you and extend a sincere offer to help.
Click here to take the course

Book: Impact Networks—Create Connection, Spark Collaboration, and Catalyze Systemic Change
This book serves as a practical guide for how to facilitate collaboration among diverse individuals and organizations to navigate complexity and create change in our interconnected world.
Click here to read

Virtual Course: Creating a Solid Support Base through Peer Relationships
In this course, you’ll learn how to develop and maintain solid, mutually beneficial relationships with different peers in any environment.
Click here to take the course