Closing Remarks

Bernadette Nagib

The Quarter Century Club was established in 1996 to honor employees who have 25 or more years of service. Members of the Quarter Century Club have made major contributions to the success of this institution through their hard work and dedication.

UT Southwestern is honored to recognize them on this special day.

Eric N. Olson, Ph.D.

Professor and Chair, Molecular Biology
UT Southwestern Medical Center

Dr. Eric Olson is the Founding Chair of the Department of Molecular Biology at UT Southwestern. He holds The Robert A. Welch Distinguished Chair in Science, the Annie and Willie Nelson Professorship in Stem Cell Research, and the Pogue Distinguished Chair in Research on Cardiac Birth Defects. He also is Director of both the Hamon Center for Regenerative Science and Medicine and the Wellstone Muscular Dystrophy Cooperative Research Center.

Dr. Olson and his trainees discovered the key transcription factors and mechanisms that control development and disease of cardiac and skeletal muscles. His discoveries at the interface of basic science and medicine have profoundly influenced our understanding of the development and dysfunction of the cardiovascular and muscular systems and have provided new targets for therapeutics. Most recently, Dr. Olson turned his attention to Duchenne muscular dystrophy (DMD), a lethal degenerative disease of skeletal muscles and the heart that has defied all therapies, and he conceived a gene-editing method to correct a majority of DMD cases. His method is now being advanced toward clinical translation in Investigational New Drug (IND)-enabling studies.

One of the most highly cited scientists in the world, Dr. Olson has had publications cited more than 190,000 times in the scientific literature. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the National Academy of Medicine, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. The French Academy of Sciences awarded Dr. Olson the Lefoulon-Delalande Grand Prize for Science, and he has received numerous other awards for his work.

Dr. Olson has trained scores of students and postdoctoral fellows who have emerged as the next generation of leaders in cardiovascular biology. He serves on the advisory boards of numerous organizations, including the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, and has founded multiple biotechnology companies to translate discoveries from his laboratory to the clinic.
